

Eight Kane Russell Coleman Logan Attorneys Honored as 2020 Texas Rising Stars

Press Releases, News / May 14, 2020

Super Lawyers has awarded Kane Russell Coleman Logan attorneys with its top recognition for young attorneys this year. From the Houston office, Demetri Economou has been named to the 2020 Texas Rising Stars list. In the KRCL Dallas office, the honorees include Michael Attaway, Caleb Davis, Jaime DeWees, David Fisk, John Kane and Scott Riddle. These attorneys demonstrate the wide-ranging legal services Kane Russell Coleman Logan provides, including corporate, civil litigation, business litigation, bankruptcy and employment law.

The Texas Rising Stars list is created annually by Thomson Reuters' legal division. The organization invites lawyers in each state to nominate their peers and then narrows the pool of nominees through extensive independent research and evaluation by a blue-ribbon panel of lawyers. This honor is ultimately awarded to only the top 2.5 percent of Texas lawyers who are 40 years old or younger or who have been in practice for 10 years or less.

“At KRCL, we provide an environment where young attorneys can grow and succeed in their careers. We have a truly distinguished pool of young legal talent, and the Texas Rising Stars selection is another good indicator of that fact. These attorneys are incredibly bright and hardworking, and this honor is well-deserved. KRCL is committed to hiring, training and helping advance young lawyers in the Firm as part of our legacy plan, which we have been working on to ensure a smooth succession to new leadership in future years,” said Karen Cox, Managing Director and Chair of the Board.

Michael Attaway is a Director in the Firm's Business and Corporate Group. He joined the Firm in 2012. He represents clients in connection with merger and acquisition transactions, commercial financing, and other business-related matters. This is the third consecutive year he has been listed as a Texas Rising Stars.

Caleb Davis practices in the area of complex civil litigation. His clients are varied, including energy and financial services businesses. This is the second year Caleb has been listed in Texas Rising Stars.

Jaime DeWees focuses her practice on real estate and commercial litigation. She handles a wide variety of complex matters and represents both plaintiffs and defendants in and outside of Texas. This is Jaime's first year being selected to Texas Rising Stars.

Demetri Economou is a Director and focuses his practice on labor and employment and complex litigation matters in the energy industry. He tries cases in state and federal courts and before administrative bodies. He has been named to the Texas Rising Stars list every year since 2017.

David Fisk, a Director in the Litigation Group, has been selected to Texas Rising Stars for the seventh consecutive year. He concentrates his practice in large loss property subrogation and construction litigation.

John Kane , a Director, has also been recognized on the Texas Rising Stars list for seven consecutive years. He practices in the Firm's Chamber's Rated Bankruptcy Section. He has considerable experience representing clients in all facets of bankruptcy, including significant creditors committees representation in multiple states.

Scott Riddle is a Director in the Litigation Group. He has been named to the Texas Rising Stars list since 2017. He represents clients in business and contractual disputes, product liability, and other complex business litigation. He has tried multiple cases to verdict and has been selected to the Best Lawyers Under 40 list by D Magazine for three consecutive years.
