Energy Law, Labor and Employment / August 26, 2018 / James D. Prappas

KRCL is proud to offer this complimentary, on-demand CLE seminar at its new online presence for webinars, www.krclwebinars.com. In this course, James Prappas discusses the legal changes in the current administration which have affected employers' abilities to hire employees on temporary (nonimmigrant) visas and immigrant (i.e., green card a/k/a lawful permanent resident) visas and related current developments. Topics covered by James include the following: temporary/nonimmigrant visas; immigrant visas/green cards; the travel ban; worksite enforcement developments; and pending legislation. The course addresses these issues generally, but focuses on possible problem areas that are specific to the oil patch: retaining key employees, how to attract new employees, and attendant visa issues.
